MARRIED PAIR ELOPE DESERTING FAMILIES

Sensational Escapade Stirs Spruce Creek Valley.

TWO HOMES WRECKED

Mrs. Frank Thomas, of Baileyville, Deserts Four Children and Disappears With Stewart Harpster, of Penna. Furnace, Father of Seven.

Two homes have been wrecked and Spruce Creek valley has been given a sensation which is the talk of the entire community by the elopement several days ago of Stewart Harpster and Mrs. Frank Thomas who deserted their respective families and departed for parts unknown. Harpster disappeared leaving a wife and seven children, the youngest of which is but 5 or 6 years of age. Mrs. Thomas deserted her husband and four children, the youngest of which is but 4 years of age. Harpster lived at Penna. Furnace. Mrs. Thomas resided near Baileyville.

Leaving their homes on separate days Harpster and Mrs. Thomas met each other at Tyrone, from which point they supposedly went to Pittsburg.

"I don't think I'll ever be back again," wrote Harpster to his wife after he had gone, the letter being mailed on a Pittsburg and New York train to prevent it being post marked and thus afford a clue to the whereabouts of the fleeing couple.

Heartbroken over the loss of his wife Mr. Thomas has been left alone to care for the four motherless children. The elopement occurred on the eve of his intended departure for Mt. Union, where he had employment. With no one to care for his four children he was forced to change his plans and remain at home. From what may be learned he has received no word from his missing wife since her unexpected flight from home.

Mrs. Thomas is perhaps 35 or 36 years of age and very good looking. Harpster is about 40 years old. The latter was mail carrier from Spruce Creek to Penna. Furnace. That the elopement was carefully planned is disclosed by the fact that before leaving Harpster sold his mail route equipment to Earl Poust.

The love affair between Harpster and Mrs. Thomas, which had its sensational climax in the elopement, started when Harpster, who had resided in that locality all his life, became mail carrier for the Spruce Creek Penna. Furnace route. One of the families to whom he delivered mail was that of Frank Thomas. He soon became infatuated with Mrs. Thomas and finally spent much of his time in her company. It was supposed that they were merely good friends, nobody dreaming that they contemplated running off and leaving their families.

On Tuesday of last week Mrs. Thomas left, saying that she was going to Tyrone. On Wednesday Harpster kissed his wife goodbye, saying that he had business at some place or other and that he would return on Friday or Saturday night. The couple met at Tyrone on Wednesday evening where they are supposed to have taken a train for the West.

The departure of both Harpster and Mrs. Thomas at about the same time created some talk in the neighborhood but it was not until Mrs. Harpster received a letter from her husband that she realized fully what had happened. At first it was supposed that the letter had been mailed in Pittsburg. Further examination revealed that it had been mailed on a western train. In it Harpster gave the brief and chilling information that he would probably never return home.

The fears of Mr. Thomas as to the exact cause of his wife's sudden departure were confirmed with the receipt by Mrs. Harpster of the letter from her husband. Staggered by the unlooked for blow he gathered his four children about him and proceeded as best he could to care for their wants. To friends he said that he had always tried to make his home comfortable and attractive for his wife and that he could not explain her action.

Mrs. Thomas was formerly Miss McClellan. With her husband she at one time lived at Coleraine Forge. Three or four years ago they removed to their present home, near Baileyville. Harpster is a son of David Harpster, who resided at Penna. Furnace for many years. He has two brothers, John and Miles. His children left fatherless by his mad infatuation for Mrs. Thomas are Millie, aged 5 or 6 years; Howard, aged 8 years; Gertie, 9 years; two daughters, aged about 12 and 15 years, respectively, and Harry, 18, years old and Grace, aged about 21 years.

TWO BLANCHARD DEATHS

N. Henry Johnston and Lloyd Gardner Pass Into Great Beyond.

Two deaths of highly respected citizens of Blanchard have occurred in the last few days. N. Henry Johnston, a well known resident of that place, died early Sunday morning after an illness of more than a year of a dropsical nature. The funeral was held on Tuesday, services being conducted at the Disciple Church by Rev. W. H. Patterson. Interment was made in the family plot in the Disciple cemetery, which adjoins the Johnston homestead.

Mr. Johnston was about 56 years old and is survived by a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Hugh Glossner, of Blanchard, and Mrs. Shuman Williams, of Pleasant Gap, and the following brothers and sisters: Charles Johnston, of Blanchard; William Johnston, of Johnsonburg; Mrs. Levina Winslow and Mrs. Jacob Snyder, of Blanchard, and Mrs. Jane Harleman, of Beech Creek. A daughter, Emma, died during the last year.

An energetic, industrious man and possessing business ability far beyond that of the average man Mr. Johnston was well and favorably known in Bald Eagle valley. By all he was highly respected and his death will be mourned by many who prized his friendship. He was one of the leading citizens of the community and a man of rugged honesty. He was an active and devout member of the Disciple Church, a kind and affectionate father and husband and a man whose death is a sad loss to that part of the county. During his illness he bore his affliction with great fortitude. The sympathy of the community goes out to the widow and daughters in the hour of their sad bereavement.

Mr. Johnston was the manufacturer of a patent well curb, which has been generally used. For many years he was an undertaker.

The second death at Blanchard was that of Lloyd Gardner, a son of Mrs. James Gardner, who died on Saturday morning after an illness extending over a period of years. He was about 21 years of age. A young man of exemplary habits and a devout member of the Baptist Church, he had a host of friends who mourn his death. The funeral was held on Monday, interment being made at the Baptist cemetery at Blanchard. The pall bearers carried the casket from the young man's home to the cemetery. They were George Miller, Ray Miller, Norris Harder, Ray Kunes, Samuel Bechdel, Samuel Smith, Joseph DeLong, Victor Ridge, Harris Bechdel, Melvin Winslow, Collis Stull, and Dean Goodman. The services were conducted by Rev. Eldridge, assisted by Rev. W. H. Patterson and Rev. G. S. West.

Mr. Gardner was the oldest son of Mrs. Gardner, whose husband died a number of years ago. In addition to his mother, two brothers, Raymond and Luther, and a sister, Olive, survive.

Richard McCord.

Richard McCord, a well known citizen of Black Moshannon, died Monday evening about 9 o'clock at his home at that place. He was aged 63 years, 5 months and 20 days. Death was caused by cancer of the stomach, with which he had been ill for some time. Besides his wife he leaves three daughters and one son, viz: Mrs. Henderson, of Munson; Osborne, Bessie and Phoebe, of Black Moshannon. The funeral will be held this afternoon. Interment at Beaver's Falls.

Mrs. Lucinda Weaver.

Mrs. Lucinda Weaver, of Centre Hall, died suddenly at her home on Sunday night. She was a sister of the late William Scholl, who resided east of Centre Hall.

Heating Contract Awarded.

The County Commissioners awarded the contract for heating and ventilating the Court House yesterday afternoon to the Bellefonte Gas & Steam Co., they being the lowest bidder. The several bids were as follows: Philadelphia Steam Heating Co., $10,640; William M. Anderson, of Philadelphia, $8,380; Hoben & Doyle, of Philadelphia, $9,600; Albert B. Schad, of Bellefonte, $9,374.80; Snyder & Raub, of Philadelphia, $8,100, and the Bellefonte Gas & Steam Co., $7,900.

The contract does not include boilers for the plant. It may be decided later to continue the use of town steam. The County Commissioners have decided to place a standing seam copper roof on the entire building.

Philipsburg's "Home Week."

Many Bellefonte people are making arrangements to attend the "Old Home Week" to be held at Philipsburg next week. The Philipsburgers are making elaborate preparations and a royal time is in store for all who attend that hustling town.

EVERYTHING IS READY FOR GRANGERS PICNIC

Elaborate Plans for Annual Exhibition at Centre Hall.

MR. OLIVER WILL SPEAK

Presence of Junior United States Senator on Thursday Is Awaited with Interest By Republicans—State Chairman Andrews May Not Be Present.

Everything is in readiness for the thirty-sixth annual Grangers Picnic, at Centre Hall, which will be formally opened on Saturday night and continued until Friday of next week. Chairman Leonard Rhone predicts the most successful picnic held by the Central Pennsylvania Patrons of Husbandry in recent years. An elaborate program for the week has been prepared.

Favorable weather is all that is needed to attract thousands of farmers and others to Grange Park. Once there the numerous features provided will be sufficient to furnish instruction and entertainment for all.

Aside from the speakers identified with the State or county grange the presence of United States Senator George T. Oliver, on Thursday, Sept. 16, will be the feature of the week. It is expected that Senator Oliver will deliver a brief address. Writing to the editor of "The Republican," from Canada, where he has been spending the last few weeks, Senator Oliver said that he was looking forward with pleasure to his visit to Grange Park. This will be his first visit to Centre county since his election as the successor to Senator Knox.

Republican State Chairman W. R. Andrews is endeavoring to arrange his affairs at State headquarters, at Philadelphia, to enable him to accompany Senator Oliver to the picnic. It is possible, however, that he may be detained at Philadelphia.

Of special interest to the many farmers who will spend the week at Grange Park will be the exhibition of farm stock. It will be the largest exhibition of the kind at the park in many years. Several carloads of cows and young cattle will be on exhibition and offered at public sale at the close of the week.

Killed Playing "Wild West."

While playing "Wild West" with several other boys James Lepley, aged 14 years, a son of John Lepley, of Milroy, was shot in the right eye with a target gun. The ball penetrated the brain, causing instant death.

Stops at Stevens Station.

Travel to Stevens station has increased sufficiently to warrant the stopping of all passenger trains of the Bellefonte Central Railroad at that point. This is good news for residents of that part of the county.

The Poorman Reunion.

Over 200 persons attended the annual Poorman reunion held at Kohlbecker's Grove, near Milesburg, on last Saturday. The day was pleasantly spent despite the rain.

Remarkable Wheat Growth.

Harold Nesbit, of Milton, has produced wheat from a single grain yielding from thirty to forty heads to a stalk. Two years ago he planted six grains a foot apart in each direction. This resulted in five stalks, yielding from thirty to forty-four heads each, and each head carrying from thirty to forty grains. The wheat came from the South and the yield closely resembled average wheat. From one stalk Mr. Nesbit claims to have obtained one thousand grains.

Last year he obtained a quart of seed which he planted this year in the same way, with the result that he harvested forty-eight quarts. The forty-eight quarts have been planted in an acre and a half of ground and he is anxiously awaiting next years's results.

State Economic Zoologist H. A. Surface is of the opinion that Mr. Nesbit's experience is not very exceptional and that any wheat planted in very fertile soil under the conditions observed by Mr. Nesbit will produce equally good results.

Monument for Co. E.

At the 48th reunion of the survivors of Co. E., 45 Reg., held at Bellefonte, last Thursday, a movement was started to erect a fine monument, at Baileyville, in commemoration of the members of company E., who left Dec. 2, 1861, for the front. The proposed monument will cost about $2500 and will have four bronze plates containing the names of the company. A committee consisting of W. H. Fry and J. G. Heberling, of Pine Grove Mills, and W. H. Musser, of Bellefonte, were appointed to get subscriptions for this most commendable enterprise.

ALLISON HAUPT RETIRES

Veteran Conductor Will Quit Railroading in Next Few Weeks.

In the next few weeks Allison Haupt, the veteran passenger conductor, will retire, having about reached the age limit, seventy years, of the Pennsylvania Railroad system. His face is familiar to all who have been traveling on the Bald Eagle Valley passenger trains in the last forty years or more. The age limit fixed by the company alone will be responsible for his retirement for despite his seventy years Mr. Haupt is enjoying splendid health and is far more vigorous than many persons much younger.

Allison Haupt was conductor of the first passenger train between Tyrone and Lock Haven, helped build the Bald Eagle Valley railroad and was in charge of the first passenger train to make the through trip between the two terminals of the lines. This was on May 10, 1865. Prior to that he was conductor on passenger trains from Tyrone to Bellefonte and later from Tyrone to Howard. With his retirement Mr. Haupt will receive an annual pension from the Pennsylvania Railroad for the remainder of his life.

Attempt to Wreck Train.

On Sunday evening, when train No. 4, of the Tyrone division of the Pennsylvania railroad was nearing Philipsburg, the engine was derailed, and upon investigation it was found that some person had spiked the switch. The engineer threw on the emergency brakes, preventing the train from going over a high embankment. It is presumed that robbery was the motive.

EXTEND STATE ROAD THROUGH BELLEFONTE

Work Will Be Begun in Course of Next Few Weeks.

ALLEGHENY ST. IN BRICK

Macadam, With Aumisite Filler to Prevent Dust, Will be Used in Linn and Bishop Streets Extension Covers 6900 Feet in Direction to Zion.

Plans for extending the State road from the Milesburg pike through Bellefonte to the borough line, on Bishop street, were approved on Saturday by Mr. Lemon, of the State Highway Department, at Harrisburg, and work on the project will be begun as soon as the contract may be advertised and awarded. The proposed road extension will be 6,900 feet, or about one and one-fourth miles.

The extension will start at the borough line, a short distance on this side of the lime kilns and will run to Linn street and thence to Allegheny. This part of the road will be of macadam. The road will be extended on Allegheny street, from Linn to the alley at Parrish's drug store, to be constructed of brick to a width of twenty-five feet. From Parrish's alley to Bishop street the road will be of brick but built to the full width of Allegheny street. From Bishop and Allegheny streets the road will be extended out Bishop to the borough line, 136 feet east of Wilson street. This part of the road will be of macadam.

Where macadam is used aumisite filler will be adopted instead of water, making the road free from dust.

Mr. Lemon inspected the proposed route on Saturday, being accompanied by J. Henry Wetzel, borough engineer. He explained that it would be necessary to advertise twenty days for bids before the contract could be awarded. Work will be begun as soon after that as possible. According to Mr. Lemon and Mr. Wetzel, however, it will not be possible to complete the proposed extension this Fall.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

Woman's Screams Frighten Off Burglar at Fairbrook.

To the fact that his daughter, Martha, is a light sleeper Tax Collector Benjamin Everhart, of Fairbrook, owes his escape from being robbed of a wallet containing a good, round sum. On Wednesday night burglars forced an entrance into the Everhart home, supposedly intent on stealing money known to be in Mr. Everhart's possession.

His daughter, Martha, heard the burglars as they forced the door into the hall. Jumping out of bed she aroused the family with her screams. The burglars beat a hasty retreat, leaving no trace behind other than the marks on the hall door. Hereafter "Ben." will be loaded for bear. Incidently, he is an expert shot with a rifle, so it will be all up with the burglar who comes within his range.

Nothing Doing in Cement.

There is little likelihood of the proposed cement plant, which is being promoted by James I. Pierepont, being established here, judging from the meeting held in the Arbitration Room of the Court House last Friday evening. The promoters want the citizens of this community, to raise $7000 to purchase the Hughes Athletic Field. As the proposed plant would only employ about 50 unskilled laborers, some persons regard it as foolish to give away this splendid manufacturing site to so small an industry. Another factor regarded as against the plant is the fact that the cement can only be made with hot furnace slag. As soon as the slag cools it looses all its viscous qualities. The point was raised as to how much cement would be made when both furnaces happened to be closed.

John I. Rowe, promoter of the furnace slag brick company, claims that he has the first option on the Hughes Athletic Field.

At the meeting this matter was thoroughly threshed out. It was finally decided that the new industry should petition the Bellefonte Board of Trade, as to the advisability of starting their plant.

Secure Bridge Contract.

Knisely & Rhoads have secured the contract for erecting a concrete bridge at Hayes Run for the Beech Creek Railroad Company. It will be 110 feet in length.

ELOPEMENT INTERRUPTED

Lock Haven Police Spoil Plans of Couple From Millheim.

The plans of a young couple from Millheim to elope to Lock Haven and be married came to grief through the activity of the young woman's mother and the Clinton county police. Instead of hearing the wedding bells ring the young couple spent Sunday night in the Lock Haven jail, pending the arrival of the bride-to-be's mother. The latter appeared on the scene and took her daughter home.

On Sunday Mrs. Edward Campbell, of Millheim, telephoned Chief of Police Powers, of Lock Haven, that her daughter, Viola, about 16 or 17 years of age, was missing. She gave a complete description of the girl and also of a young man named King. The Lock Haven police were instructed to apprehend the couple, Mrs. Campbell contending that her daughter evidently planned to elope and that she was too young to be married.

Visiting the lower Pennsylvania passenger station Chief Powers observed a couple answering the description furnished coming from Beck's hotel. Satisfied that they were the parties wanted Chief Powers took them in charge and notified the girl's mother.

It appeared that the couple drove to Mill Hall on Sunday and took a street car to Lock Haven. From that place they intended to go to Pine Glenn, to which point King had already purchased tickets.

Breese—Baker.

Miss Jane Curtin Breese and Joseph Boyd Baker III were married on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. K. Randolph Breese, in Downington, near Philadelphia.

The wedding was very quiet, the bride being given in marriage by her brother, Andrew Breese. Mr. and Mrs. Baker expect to live in Altoona, where Mr. Baker is employed. The bride is very well known in Bellefonte. She is a grand-daughter of the late Andrew G. Curtin. Among those from Bellefonte who attended the wedding were Mrs. George F. Harris, Mrs. John M. Shugert and two children, Mr. and Mrs. John Curtin and Wallace H. Gephart.

Miller—Irvin.

Miss Maud M. Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller, of Thomas street, and Alfred T. Irvin, brother of E. P. Irvin, of this place, formerly proprietor of the Racket store, were married, yesterday afternoon, by Rev. Barry, at Huntingdon. The young couple will reside at Buffalo, N. Y., where Mr. Irvin is employed as a government inspector. After an elaborate wedding supper at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. N. Gill, of Huntingdon, the happy couple departed for a brief honeymoon in the eastern cities. Although the wedding did not occur until they arrived at Huntingdon their departure from Bellefonte was made amid a shower of rice and best wishes from many friends.

Taylor - Elsey.

Miss Bernice Taylor, of this place, and Warren Elsey, of Hazelwood, near Pittsburg, stole a march on their many friends here on Wednesday, by getting married. Miss Taylor is a daughter of Mrs. Annie Taylor, of East Howard Street, and is a most popular and highly cultured young lady.

Warren Elsey is a former Academy student. While here he played on the Academy football team and was well known socially. The young couple will reside in Hazelwood, near Pittsburg, where Mr. Elsey has an excellent position in one of the Jones & Laughlin steel mills. "The Republican" extends hearty congratulations.

Hastings—Grindall.

Miss Harriett B. Hastings, of Bellefonte, and William H. Grindall, of Altoona, were united in marriage on Saturday at Stevens, Centre county. The services were conducted by Rev. Thomas S. Wilcox, of this place. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hastings, of this place, and is very well known in this vicinity.

Fire at Eagleville.

Fire completely destroyed the residence of Mrs. Patrick Rearton, near Eagleville station, on Saturday night. The building and all the contents were burned. The loss is estimated at about $1700, partially insured.

Store Plans Changed.

The plan to organize a company to conduct the business of the Clarence Supply Company at Clarence, has been abandoned for the present at least, and that well known and progressive store will be continued by the present owners.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

Almost immediately the Russian came into the room, and Pike noted the suffering upon his face, the look of timid apprehension with which he glanced furtively about. For him there was a carabinier in every corner.

"Have they come?" he whispered tensely. Daniel went over to him and laid a lank hand upon the bent shoulder, looking him triumphantly in the eyes.

"Not yet," he answered, and paused. "Ivanoff, you prayed to see your wife and your friend Glenwood before you went back to Siberia."

The Russian tore himself away with a gasping cry, but Daniel caught his wrist.

"If that prayer is answered through me," he went on, "will you promise to remember that it's my fight?"

Ivanoff covered his face with his hands, and his breath came chokingly.

"It is impossible! You wish to play with me!" he gasped.

"Do I look playful?" demanded Daniel. And as he spoke a bugle sounded sharply outside the window off to the right. At the sound Ivanoff shrank into himself, and his fingers trembled in the other's grasp.

"The carabinieri—for me!" he cried.

Both men turned quickly to the window, and Pike thrust Ivanoff behind him as he drew aside the heavy curtain.

"Don't show yourself!" he commanded. But there was a smothered exclamation from the fugitive, and he pointed over Pike's shoulder.

"Look! Near the lamp yonder—there by the gates—the carabinieri!"

His arm trembled as it rested for an instant on the American's shoulder, and Pike returned quietly:

"Pouf! They've been there since we hid you beneath the machine." He stopped and shaded his eyes with his hand from the glare of the lamps inside the room, then started. "Why—who on earth—who's that they've got with 'em? Why, good Lord, it's doc!"

Ivanoff strained over his shoulder to look and then replied bitterly:

"It is Herr von Grollerhagen! Did I not tell you he was a Russian? He has betrayed me himself! He was not satisfied that others should. Ah, I knew I was in the wolf's throat here!"

Pike swore emphatically and exhaustively.

"Don't you believe it!" he snarled. "They've arrested poor old doc! Got him as he went out!"

"No!" cried Ivanoff. "They speak respectfully to him! They bow to him"—

"They'll be bowing to us in a minute. That's probably the way these colonels run you in!" snarled Daniel.

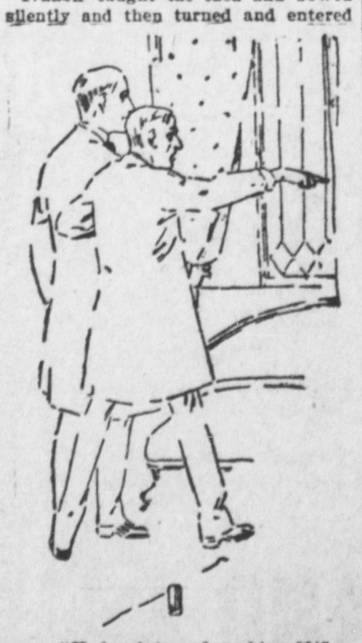
As he spoke there was a sharp knock on the outer door, and he seized Ivanoff by the arm.

"Back into the room with you! Wait until I call, and remember it's my fight!"

He was about to add more when the door opened and Mariano appeared. Instantly the American changed his tone to one of severe command.

"And don't you forget what I've been telling you. You get the sand out of that gear box first thing tomorrow morning, or I'll see that you draw your last pay Saturday night!"

Ivanoff caught the idea and bowed silently and then turned and entered



"He has betrayed me himself!"

the door to the inner chamber. Mariano came forward and bowed.

"Mees Granger-Seempsone," said he and went out, standing to one side to make room for Ethel as she entered with a look of complete astonishment on her face. Pike approached her.

"I'm much obliged to you for taking my note the right way," he said. "I've got some pretty good reasons for not leaving this room."

She inclined her head icily and fidgeted with the note she held.

"Your note seemed so extraordinarily urgent," she began, but he interrupted.

"It had to be," he said. "Some folks who want to see me are coming here, and I want you to see them—here. They'd stopped you from coming if they could."

She flashed a look of disbelief at him.

"There was no effort to prevent me," she said coldly.

"I didn't give 'em time," he smiled.

"May I ask to whom you refer?" she inquired.

"Certainly. The whole kit and boodle of 'em," he replied. "Excuse me. I haven't time to be elegant, even if I knew how."

"Do you mean my chaperon would disapprove?" she asked, hastily rising.

"I shouldn't be surprised. I reckon the whole fine flower of Europe would disapprove. 'Disapprove!' They'd sandbag you to keep you away!"

"Then I can't stay," she cried and started for the door. He stepped between her and the exit and raised his hand with a gesture of command.

"Yes, you can, and you will, and you've got to," he said. "I'm your guardian, and you'll do as I say. You'll obey me this once if you never do again. You'll stay here while I talk to these people, and you'll stay in spite of everything they say or do to make you go!" She looked startled and stepped back from him, and he went on:

"God knows I hate to talk rough to you. I wouldn't hurt your feelings for the world, but it's come to a point where I've got to use the authority I have over you."

In an instant she flared up.

"Authority! Do you think"—

"You'll stay here for the next twenty minutes if I have to make Crecy and Agincourt look like a peace conference," he snapped. And she sank back into a chair with a gesture of alarm.

Pike went closer to her and spoke more softly.

"You and your brother have soaked up a society column notion of life over here," he said. "You're like old Pete Delaney of Terre Hut. He got so he'd drink cold tea if there was a label on the bottle that spelled whisky."

"You're going too far!" the girl cried.

"They've got you fuddled with labels here," went on the American. "It's my business to see that you know what kind of people you're dealing with."

She dropped her head.

"You're bullying me! I don't see why you talk so brutally to me."

"Do you think I'd do it for anything but you?" he asked.

"You are odious, insufferable!" she cried, with a flash of temper.

"Don't you think I know you despise me?" he asked bitterly. And she flared again.

"I do not despise you. If I had stayed at home and grown up there I should probably have been a provincial young woman, playing 'Sweet Genevieve' on the organ for you tonight," she said. "My life has not been that, however, and you have humiliated me from the moment of your arrival here. You have made me ashamed both of you and myself. And now you have some preposterous plan that will shame me again—both of us—once more before these gentlefolk."

There was a bustling without and some loud talking, and Pike smiled wanly.

"I think them gentlefolk are here," he said. As he spoke the door was thrown open, and Lady Creech hurriedly entered, followed by the countess, Horace, Almeric and the earl. The latter bowed sardonically to Pike, and Lady Creech hurried to Ethel with a cry of astonishment.

"My dear child! What are you doing here in this dreadful place with this dreadful person?" she demanded shrilly.

"My dear! Les convenances!" cried madame.

"Ethel! I am surprised! Come away at once!" demanded Horace.

"Oh, I say, you know, Miss Ethel, really!" echoed Almeric. "You can't stay here, you know!"

Pike stopped them with a gesture and said:

"I'm her guardian, and she's here by my authority, and, what's more, she'll stay by my authority."

Horace turned to the earl.

"Lord Hawcastle, will you insist upon Ethel's leaving? It's quite on the cards we shall have a disagreeable scene here."

Hawcastle smiled evilly.

"I see no reason for it. We're here simply for Mr. Pike's answer. He knows where he stands, and he knows where we stand," said the earl suavely, and the American met his smile evenly.

"I reckon you're right so far," he said.

"And your answer will be yes?" asked the earl, but Pike shook his head.

"You're wrong there," he answered, and Hawcastle changed front in an instant.

"Perhaps you are right, Mr. Granger-Simpson," he said. "There may be painful things done. Better your sister were spared them. Take her away."

Pike snapped at them all and moved to the door, where he faced them.

"Miss Ethel, you'll stay right where you are!" he commanded, and, paying no attention, Pike turned to Hawcastle.

"You're here for an answer, you say?"

"Yes," answered the earl, after an instant's pause, and Dan went closer to him.

"An answer to what?" he demanded, looking the other in the eye.

"An answer to our request that you accede to the wishes of this young lady," replied the earl uneasily.

"And if I don't what are you going to do?" demanded Pike quickly. Horace at once broke in.

"Ethel, you must go!" he implored. But Pike waved him to silence.

"Tell her. Why do you come here sure of the answer you want?" he insisted savagely.

"A gentleman would spare her that," said Hawcastle, with uneasiness, and the American laughed.

"I won't!" he snapped. "Speak out! Why?" But the earl would not answer directly, so Pike turned to Ethel.

"This afternoon I tried to help a poor devil, a broken down Russian running away from Siberia, where he'd been for nine years."

Ethel half rose in her chair and faced him eagerly.

"A poor, weak thing," he went on, "hounded like you've seen a rat in the gutter by dogs and bootblacks. Some of your friends here saw us bring him into this apartment. They know we've got him here now. If I don't agree to hand over you and $750,000 of the money John Simpson made it means that the man I tried to help goes back to Siberia and I go to an Italian jail for two years or as much more as they can make it."

"Nonsense," cried Hawcastle. But Ethel waved him aside and turned, with a withering look on Pike.

"I knew you had some further humiliation in store for me. Do you think I would believe that an English nobleman would stoop"—

Pike interrupted her ruthlessly and bitterly.

Schedule for the Amendments.

Section 12. That no inconvenience may arise from the changes in the Constitution of the Commonwealth, and in order to carry the same into complete operation, it is hereby declared that—

In the case of officers elected by the people, all terms of office fixed by act of Assembly at an odd number of years shall each be lengthened one year, but the Legislature may change the length of the term, provided the terms for which such officers are elected shall always be for an even number of years.

The above extension of official terms shall not affect officers elected at the general election of one thousand nine hundred and eight; nor any city, ward, borough, township, or election division officers, whose terms of office, under existing law, end in the year one thousand nine hundred and ten.

In the year one thousand nine hundred and ten the municipal election shall be held on the third Tuesday of February, as heretofore; but all officers chosen at that election to an office the regular term of which is two years, and also all election officers and assessors chosen at that election, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven. All officers chosen at that election to offices the term of which is now four years, or is made four years by the operation of these amendments or this schedule, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen. All justices of the peace, magistrates, and aldermen, chosen at that election, shall serve until the first Monday of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen. All judges of the courts for the several judicial districts, and also all county officers, holding office at the date of the approval of these amendments, whose terms of office may end in the year one thousand nine hundred and eleven, shall continue to hold their offices until the first Monday of January, one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

A New Way to Can Tomatoes.

Last summer I tried a new method of canning tomatoes, and it proved so satisfactory that I want to pass it on. Scald and peel the tomatoes as usual. Have the cans sterilized, place the raw tomatoes in them whole, pour in boiling water to fill the cans, running a knife around in the cans, so that all the crevices are filled, then put on the cover. Place the cans in a boiler or large vessel, pour in boiling water till it reaches the neck of the can, put the lid on the boiler wrap it with a blanket or rug, and leave until the water is cold, which will be next morning. The cans are then ready to put away. I did not lose a can out of forty quarts. When the cans were opened, the tomatoes were whole and firm enough to slice easily—Woman's Home Companion for September.

Creole Chicken.

Cook four tablespoonsfuls of butter with one half shallot, finely chopped, five minutes, stirring constantly. Onion may be used if shallot is not at hand. Add five tablespoonfuls of flour, and stir until well browned; then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, three fourths of a cupful each of chicken stock and stewed and strained tomatoes. Bring to the boiling-point, season with one teaspoonful of lemon-juice, one half teaspoonful of salt and one eighth of a teaspoonful of paprika. Add one and one-half cupfuls of cooked chicken or fowl cut in small cubes, and let stand ten or fifteen minutes in the top of the double boiler, that the meat may absorb some of the sauce. —Fannie Merritt Farmer in Woman's Home Companion for September.

COUNTRY ROAD DRAG.

Practical Device Which Has Been Tried With Success.

Good country roads in this growing country have become a necessity. The era of "getting stuck in the mud" in the lanes and being compelled to take rails from a fence to pry out the wagon has passed out in most localities. Still, in order to have good roads the farmers must see to it that they are kept in good condition. To accomplish this there are numerous devices, some satisfactory, some otherwise.

One that has been tried out in the Dakotas and that has created talk in the western agricultural districts is known as the "King drag." The accompanying cuts, the one showing a plank drag, the other a split log drag, will give an idea of the device.

The drag is made of heavy plank or a split log. As shown in the picture, these are attached three feet apart and dragged diagonally along the road. In this way they do the good work of a road scraper without its faults. They do not plow, as the road machine often does, but scrape and level. Roads are ruined by leaving ruts and rough places for the water to stand. If these are leveled this water drains off and the road dries. The "King drag" has proved very useful in many sections where farmers use it regularly to keep the surface of the road smooth.

Hints For Stock Owners.

Shear the sheep early.

Dip the sheep immediately after shearing and again in about three weeks to destroy eggs and all ticks that may have escaped at the first dipping.

The lambs should be dipped at the same time, for when the ewes are shorn the ticks flock on to the lambs.

Do not leave them out in the spring rains.

When a cow is a little off never put her milk in with the rest.

Apply the Babcock test and be guided by its teaching, and thou shalt have gold both to spend and to lend.

If the young pigs should show signs of looseness of the bowels, shut off all feed to the sow but dry oats for a day or two, and the trouble will usually disappear.

Blind the hogs that have the habit of eating chickens by hanging a strip of tin four inches by eight inches in size from their ears. This will stop them when almost everything else has failed.

The newborn colt must have milk during the first half hour of its life or the chances are that it will die.

See that the colt is strong enough to start the milk. If it is not, help it.

The first milk is necessary, as it causes the bowels to move naturally.

If there is any serious constipation, give a little castor oil or give injections of soap and warm water.

Keep the mare quiet and feed carefully for a week or ten days, when she may be turned in pasture, but only for a short time at first.

If the mare does not have milk enough, cow's milk may be given to help out, but it must be done with common sense.

Very rich milk should not be used.

Value of Humus.

Humus in the soil has seldom been taken at its full worth. The mission which it fulfills is second in importance only to that which is fulfilled by the presence of plant food in the soil. Humus is helpful in keeping soil in proper mechanical balance, in binding soils that are much prone to blow, in increasing the power of soils to absorb and hold moisture.

When the humus is exhausted in a soil its mechanical condition suffers. It becomes more impacted, less easily aerated and less easily penetrated by the roots of plants. Some soils so light as to lift with the wind can be kept from blowing, at least in a great measure, by simply keeping them stored with grass, roots or other vegetable matter buried in the soil. The increase in the power of soils to hold moisture is very great when well stored with humus. When commercial fertilizers are sown on land they will fail to respond properly unless the land is supplied with humus.

Such being the case, every effort should be made to store the land with humus. It would be possible to have an excess of humus, but in practice this seldom happens. Humus may be put into the soil in the form of clover roots, of grass roots, of buried catch crops and barnyard manure.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold.

A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Sleep

Sleep is nature's rebuilding period, when the energy used by the brain, muscles and organs is renewed. If you lose sleep, your system is robbed of the strength sleep should give. Continued loss of sleep multiplies this loss until you become a physical wreck. Dr. Miles' Nervine quiets the irritated nerves and brings refreshing, invigorating sleep. Nervine contains no opiates, and therefor leaves no bad after-effects.

"For over two years I suffered untold agonies; my friends thought I was going crazy. I could not sleep nor rest at all. I tried different doctors, but failed to find relief. My head would ache all the time; I was like one drunk; could not concentrate my mind, and was so restless and worried that sleep was out of the question. After taking one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine I felt wonderfully changed. I am now on my third bottle and am gaining all the time. I can lie down and sleep like a child, and am able to do my work."
MRS. MAY SCOTT, English, Ind.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Nervine, and we authorize him to return price of first bottle (only) if it fails to benefit you.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces,

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

State.

Supreme Court Justice,
JUDGE ROBERT VON MOSCHZISKER, of Phila.

Auditor General,
A. E. SISSON, of Erie.

State Treasurer,
J. A. STOBER, of Lancaster.

County.

Jury Commissioner,
JOHN D. DECKER, of Potter Twp.

Pleads Guilty.

The "Democratic Watchman," by its evasion of the subject, pleads guilty of having deliberately and maliciously lied when it said that the 2-cent railroad fare law was tested before Judge von Moschzisker and that he declared it unconstitutional because he "wanted to serve the corporations rather than the people and perverted his power to achieve that result."

Instead of meeting the question the "Watchman" crawls around it. It lied about Judge von Moschzisker and was caught with the goods on.

In the "exhuberance of youth and the enthusiasm of inexperience" we again challenge the "Watchman," in "the sear and yellow leaf" of deception, hypocrisy and perversion of facts, to show when the 2-cent fare law was ever before Judge von Moschzisker.

A Democratic Game.

A scheme to divert Republican votes to C. La Rue Munson, of Williamsport, the Democratic candidate for Supreme Court Justice, was yesterday uncovered by friends of Judge Robert von Moschzisker, of this city, the Republican nominee for that office: says the Philadelphia "Inquirer." Discovery was made of a systematic canvass of members of the bar of the State that has been inaugurated with a view to getting them to give "complimentary" votes to Candidate Munson at the expense of Judge von Moschzisker.

In order to remove suspicion from the real purpose of the game to swell the vote for the Democratic candidate at the expense of his Republican opponent, the canvassers disclaim any thought of Mr. Munson winning and concede Judge von Moschzisker's election by a large majority. They thus hope to lull Republicans into a feeling of confidence in a sweeping victory and make it easier for them to pick up so-called "complimentary votes."

Following is a copy of a letter received by a well-known member of the bar, which shows the methods being employed by the Democratic compaigners in their still hunt for votes for Mr. Munson: N. M. Edwards,

Attorney-at law.
Office Cor. Third and Pine streets.,
Williamsport, Pa.

August 13, 1909.

My Dear Sir:

Will you oblige me with the names of two or three Republican members of the bar of your county who will support for election to the Supreme Court the Hon. C. LaRue Munson, formerly president of the Pennsylvania State Bar Association?

Already a large number of the leading lawyers of the State irrespective of party, have expressed their intention to support Mr. Munson.

An early reply will oblige,

Very truly yours,
N. M. EDWARDS.

As the result of the receipt of this and similar letters by members of the bar, Chairman Wesley R. Andrews, of the Republican State Committee, has sent out a note of warning to Republican committeemen that they may advise the members of the bar and others who may be likewise approached of the tactics that are being employed by the Democratic politicians and others who are active in promoting the Munson candidacy.

In view of the high standing of the Republican nominee for the Supreme Court, his brilliant career upon the Common Pleas Bench, his record as one of the best read, most industrious and capable of the jurists of the Commonwealth and his great reputation as a "writing Judge," he having written more opinions that have been sustained by the Supreme Court than probably any other judge sitting upon the Common Pleas bench during the time in which he has held that position, friends of Judge von Moschzisker yesterday declared that no Republican member of the bar could consistently vote for his Democratic opponent, even under the guise of giving him a "complimentary vote."

As far as the State Bar Association is concerned, it was pointed out that Judge von Moschzisker has been an active member of that organization for years and has frequently figured in annual meeting debates and served upon important committees. He is also a member of the National Bar Association and has just returned from the annual meeting of that body.

The attempt to work Republican members of the bar into voting for the Democratic candidate for the Supreme Court simply because at one time he happened to hold the office of president of the State Bar Association, was declared to be one of the most flimsy political games that has been attempted in this State for years.

Reports received by State Chairman Andrews indicate that Republicans are going to stand loyally by their ticket in Pennsylvania this fall and that neither this nor any other trick that may be tried by the Democrats will be successful in diverting votes from the head of the ticket.

AUTOMOBILISTS COMPLAIN

Tell Councils Allegheny Street is Worst in Centre County.

Robert F. Hunter, W. A. Moore and James H. Potter, a committee representing the Bellefonte Motor Club, called on Councils on Monday evening last and asked that repairs be made to Allegheny and other streets. Allegheny Street, they declared, is in worse condition than any other street in Centre County. Clothing his remarks in smiles Mr. Hunter made the blunt statement that the roads in Ferguson, Walker, Marion and a number of other townships are in better shape than the streets of Bellefonte.

Councils listened to the complaint and offered little in the way of sympathy or encouragement. Harry Keller, acting president, explained that a lack of funds made it impossible for Councils to consider anything in the shape of extensive improvements at the present time. Mr. Harper said that the delay in repairing Allegheny Street was due to the fact that the proposed State road would extend along that thoroughfare and that this would remedy the evils complained of.

The automobilists were not satisfied with this and urged that a few loads of crushed stone be placed at the approaches to crossings. To this they added that the condition of the streets now makes driving of automobiles anything but a pleasure and a source of constant danger to machines.

"Drive slow, then" tartly remarked Councilman Kirk.

"For myself I'll guarantee that I am not exceeding any speed limit" replied Mr. Hunter.

"I may have at one time but the most of us are no longer speed-mad," interjected Mr. Moore.

"Is it true, as I have been informed, that two and three persons are using one license in violation of the law?" queried Councilman Kirk.

"The Bellefonte Motor Club is not in sympathy with any such practices" replied Mr. Hunter with more or less emphasis. "If anybody has information that several persons are using one license and will notify the Motor Club we will run it down and stop it. That is one of the purposes of our club."

The exchange of views brought out a suggestion by Mr. Hunter that Councils regulate the sprinkling of streets.

"It would be economy for the borough to have the business streets sprinkled with a wagon-sprinkler," continued Mr. Hunter.

Mrs. Eliza Ammerman, of Bishop Street, walked into Councils chambers and hearing the water subject being discussed took a hand in it at the first opening. She complained that a water main in front of her residence had burst and that her cellar was being flooded.

"I have carried out five hundred buckets of water but it has got beyond me" she explained.

She retired with assurance that the trouble would be remedied as quickly as possible. Ths automobilists resumed their complaints and finally departed with the comfort of knowing that Councils had enjoyed their call.

The Street Committee reported progress in considering the proposed street railway ordinance. Mr. Harper said that the ordinance would have to be changed to extend the trolley through more streets in Bellefonte in order that it might be of some service to the public. Mr. Kirk and Mr. Beezer said that they were opposed to the ordinance in its present shape. It was explained that the promoters were willing to make any changes desired.

No action was taken by Councils in regard to the needed repairs to the reservoir. G. Edward Haupt submitted a proposition to reline the reservoir for $1200, which was filed.

Residents of East High Street filed a protest against the request of the County Commissioners for permission to remove a part of the new cement sidewalk, along the Court House. It is desired to remove the sidewalk as a part of the plan for remodeling the Court House. High Street residents oppose the removal for the reason that the sidewalk affords women their only opportunity to travel to Allegheny Street without passing through crowds of men on the street corners. No action was taken on the request or the protest.

Before adjourning Councils approved a number of bills to meet current expenses.

ODD FELLOWS RALLY AT HUNTER'S PARK

Bellefonte and State College Lodges Celebrate.

HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Upward of 4000 Persons Attended Outing Which Was Grand Success—Valuable Prizes Awarded to Visitors In Many Exciting Contests.

Upward 4000 people attended the annual picnic of the Bellefonte and State College lodges I. O. O. F. at Hunter's Park on Labor Day. One and all voted the affair a grand success while the happy but tired faces of the returning holiday crowd gave ample testimony of a glorious outing. Too much credit for the success of the picnic cannot be given to George T. Graham, of State College, chairman of the executive committee, and the Rebekahs of both lodges.

In the morning the crowd was entertained with a base ball game between the Rebekahs, of the Crystal Spring Lodge, of Bellefonte, and the Lady State Lodge, of State College. Three innings of very fast ball were played and the State aggregation claimed that they had won the pennant by a score of 10-9. The Bellefonters said it was a tie, the score being 10-10. The score-keeper, being a wise man, disappeared. The executive committee, also diplomats, did not care to learn who were wearing false hair and after a very learned debate decided that both teams won and that each should receive a pennant.

The Bellefonte team was composed of Miss Struble, pitcher; Miss Weiland, catcher; Mrs. Armstrong, first base; Miss Sholl, second base; Miss Flick, third base; Miss McKelvey, short stop; Miss McClellan, left field; Miss Leitzell, right field, and Miss Clark, centre field. On the State College team were Miss Evey, pitcher; Miss Harvey, catcher; Miss From, first base; Miss Stevens, second base; Miss Imboden, third base; Miss M. Mingle, short stop; Miss Edmiston, left field; Miss Edna Mingle, right field, and Miss Watkins, centre field.

The afternoon program was replete with freak contests. James Schofield, of Bellefonte, and George Keller, of Houserville, distinguished themselves, in the fat men's race by tripping over each other. In the confusion Wallace White, of Axe Mann, beat out the other two and won the prize, a box of cigars, presented by George B. Jackson, of State College.

A pretty wicker chair, the gift of Sheasly and Gentzel, of State College, was presented to Clarence LeRoy, the four-month-old son, of Edward Owens, of Bellefonte, who took first prize in the baby show. The second prize, a bedspread, was awarded to James, the little son of George Graham, of State College.

A cash prize of $3.00 was given to Mike Woomer, of Buffalo Run Valley, for having the largest family on the grounds. Mike's family total 14 and he considers it small.

A box of cigars was presented by George T. Graham to the Bellefonte Odd Fellows, who defeated the State College team in a base ball game by the score of 16-14.

Harold Gill, of State College won the boys' hop race. The prize was a pair of tennis shoes, presented by Fitzezy Yeager, of Bellefonte.

The laughable peanut roll was won by Charles Koon, of State College. The prize was a handsome silver mug offered by C. E. Shuey, of State College.

The men's candle race was won by J. A. Wagner, of Spring Mills, who received a pair of slippers, presented by A. C. Mingle, of Bellefonte.

The girl's lemon race was won by Miss Elsie Markley, of State College. The prize was a handsome album offered by I. C. Holmes, of State College.

The boys' 100-yard-dash was won by Linn Kerstetter and Claude Crosthwaite, both of State College. The prizes were two pairs of scissors presented by the H. D. Meek Hardware Company, of State College.

Miss Mable From, of State College, won the handbag, offered by Joseph Bros. & Co., of Bellefonte, to the winner of the ladies' nail driving contest.

The ladies' ball throwing contest was won by Miss Wieland, of Boalsburg. The prize was a solid mahogany desk chair presented by Heberling and Rearick, of State College.

The men's egg race was won by Jacob Hoy, of near Bellefonte, who received a fine umbrella presented by H. W. Sauers, of State College.

The shoe-lacing contest was won by Robert Edmiston, of State College, the prize being a pair of patent leather shoes, presented by Adam H. Hartswick, of State College.

Fine music was furnished all day in the dancing pavilion by Christy Smith's orchestra.

It will be a long time before the Odd Fellows' Picnic of 1909 will be forgotten.

May Lose a Thumb.

Several years ago Henry Beezer was cut in the right hand with a butcher knife. The wound healed up and he thought nothing more of it. Two weeks ago however, it started to fester and it is now feared that Mr. Beezer will lose his thumb.

Auto Run.

A large number of members of the Bellefonte Motor Club left on Tuesday morning for a run to Lewistown, Alexandria and Huntingdon. The run was made to strengthen interest among the club members and to help the future efforts which the club proposes to make, principally for better roads.

Those who participated in the run included F. E. Naginey, Hugh N. Crider, George A. Beezer, Dr. John Sebring, Jr., Dr. David Dale, Donald S. Potter, William A. Moore, John P. Lyons and Robert F. Hunter.

All the cars returned the same night. The first four who reached Bellefonte were John P. Lyon, F. E. Naginey, W. A. Moore and George A. Beezer. While near Penna. Furnace Frank Naginey's car collided with a cow. The latter sustained the most damage.

Tyrone Home Dynamited.

The home of Thomas Calderwood, superintendent of the American Lime & Stone quarries, at Tyrone, was badly wrecked by dynamite, early Monday morning. Some foreigners who were recently discharged by Mr. Calderwood are believed to be responsible for the explosion.

Mr. Calderwood arose early Monday morning smelling smoke, and upon investigation found a large bundle of dynamite securely bound to his bed room window. He kicked the dynamite to the ground and succeeded in escaping from the house with his family before the explosion. The house was badly damaged.

U. S. DISPENSATORY

Describes the Principal Ingredients of Pe-ru-na.

Are we claiming too much for Peruna when we claim it to be an effective remedy for chronic catarrh? Have we abundant proof that Peruna is in reality such a catarrh remedy? Let us see what the United States Dispensatory says of the principal ingredients of Peruna.

Take, for instance, the ingredient hydrastis canadensis, or golden seal. The United States Dispensatory says of this herbal remedy, that it is largely employed in the treatment of depraved mucous membranes, chronic rhinitis (nasal catarrh), atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), chronic intestinal catarrh, catarrhal jaundice (catarrh of the liver), and in diseased mucous membranes of the pelvic organs. It is also recommended for the treatment of various forms of diseases peculiar to women.

Another ingredient of Peruna, corydalis formosa, is classed in the United States Dispensatory as a tonic. Is used as a treatment for chronic constitutional diseases and scrofula.

Cedron seeds is another ingredient of Peruna, an excellent drug that has been very largely overlooked by the medical profession for the past fifty years. The seeds are to be found in very few drug stores. The United States Dispensatory says of the action of cedron that it is used as a bitter tonic and in the treatment of dysentery, and in intermittent diseases as a substitute for quinine.

These are not all of the medicinal ingredients Peruna contains. Suffice it to say that it is a compound of herbal remedies, each one of which has, from time to time, been recommended by physicians of all schools, for different catarrhal conditions.

If you want to know what the people say send to us for a free book of testimonials of what the people think of Peruna as a catarrh remedy. After all has been said, the best evidence for or against any remedy is the testimony of those who have tried it.

Howard.

A wedding of surprise to her many friends here was that of Miss Susan Holter, a former Howard young lady and daughter of the late Benj. F. Holter, to John H. Henston, of Roaring Springs, at the Holter home, 824 Cherry street, Williamsport, on Tuesday, August 31. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George F. Boggs, the bride's pastor, and formerly located here. The wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Bond and the bride was attended by her sisters, Misses Josephine and Fannie Holter. Following the wedding a sumptuous dinner was served under the direction of the bride's sister, Miss Jennie Holter. Only a few intimate friends of the bride witnessed the ceremony. After a brief wedding tour they went to Roaring Springs, where the groom is employed in a book bindery and where they will make their future home. The bride has a host of friends in Howard who extend their best wishes over this happy event.

Next week Howard will have the honor of entertaining the largest and most distinguished body of men that has been within her gates for some time. This important and interesting event will be the annual ministerial convention of the Altoona district of the Methodist Episcopal church. It is expected that most of the ministers of the district will be in attendance and the church-going people of this community will enjoy a season of religious instruction seldom accorded them. The opening session of the convention will be held Monday afternoon, the 13th, continuing that evening and three sessions on Tuesday. The people of the town have cheerfully opened their homes for the entertainment of the ministers and we feel assured that we will be benefitted socially, as well as religiously, for their having been in our midst. Among the visiting pastors will be several who were formerly located here.

Rev. Frank L. Barden, of Washington, D. C., a former pastor of the Baptist church at Eagleville, was a recent visitor with friends in Howard.

Mrs. Henry C. Holter and her eldest son, Daniel, departed last Wednesday for Columbus, Ohio, where they will visit Mrs. Holter's daughters, Mrs. W. I. Gordon and Mrs. J. A. Kundts.

The return of Miss Ida Rhoades from Philadelphia in greatly improved health was welcome news to her many friends, who hope for her a speedy and complete recovery.

The recent rains have materially aided the farmers in their work of preparing the ground for the fall seeding, most of which is now well under way.

To the long list of sidewalk improvements we can now add the name of Mrs. D. N. Pletcher, who has laid a concrete pavement in front of her residence on Walnut street.

G. L. Williams and family have moved into their handsome new home on "Cleveland" avenue.

The opening of the schools next Monday morning has been the all-absorbing topic of interest to the young folks this week and they will be on hand bright and early to secure their seats.

While we boast of having a good supply of water there is no question but that some of our citizens use it to excess during the summer season. We have quite frequently observed some who would run a hose into their gardens or lots and let a stream of water run for nearly a whole day. This is going way beyond the limit of domestic use and some day we may pay dearly for it. On different occasions during the recent dry spell the pressure became so weakened that with the use of a garden hose the water could not be thrown across the street. Suppose a fire should break out at such a time, the fire company would be almost helpless with such a low pressure. Another year councils should place some restriction on the use of the water.

It was also decided to make some repairs on the hilly portions of some of the streets to keep them from further washing. John Holmes was granted the privilege of using one of the borough street lights in front of his residence. The nuisance committee reported several nuisances. Bills to the amount of $119.19 were approved and ordered paid.

One day last week Mrs. Marius Miner had the pleasure of entertaining as her guests Mrs. Swartz, of Easton; Mrs. Robinson, of New York City; Mrs. Zimmerman, of Pittsburg; and the Misses Stevenson, of Bellefonte.

Routine business and the payment of some bills constituted the order of affairs of the school board Monday evening.

On account of a change in the charges of the Reformed church Rev. H. I. Crow has tendered his resignation as pastor here. His work in the future will be confined to the Hublersburg and Zion appointments, while a new minister will be secured for this and the other appointments of the charge. It is very much regretted by the Howard congregation that Rev. Crow will be called away on account of this change.

Runville.

Hello, Peggy! Here's my—— hand to you. The scribes say you look old-fashioned, but to my eyes you are better looking. I am sure my friends all agree with me. You ask if I was out gathering news. No, I don't have to gather news for a year to write ONE WEEK'S items, like you. Nor do I sleep my time away like the Snow Shoe correspondent. Your friends tell me they have to use a derrick and a stick of dynamite to get you out of bed in the morning. Peggy, you are a wise boy, but if Jack Frost should happen to look down upon those beautiful golden locks of yours and tint them white, oh my! Your fate would be an old bachelor, sure, and your chances would be good for husking pumpkins for the balance of your life or to become doorkeeper in the Snow Shoe lock-up. Good-bye, Peggy.

Clyde Hancock, who is employed in Frye's drug store, at Philadelphia, greeted old friends in our village last week. He is a son of Edward Hancock, of Philipsburg, and is one of the young men of Centre county who are making themselves felt in the world.

On Saturday, Sept. 18, Ojibuay Tribe, No. 496, I. O. R. M., of Milesburg, will hold their second annual picnic on the "Old Hunting Ground," at Yarnell. The day promises to be a very interesting one for old and young warriors, their squaws, papooses and sweethearts. A game of baseball between a team of single and another of married Indians will be but one of many features. Refreshments of all kinds will be served by the squaws. Corn, venison, acorns und roast dog will be in abundance, the corn being so large that one ear will be enough for a dozen hungry Indians. The tribe extends a hearty "whoop" to one and all to bring a basket and spend the day with them.

A festival will be held at the Runville school house, Saturday evening, Sept. 11, for the benefit of the United Brethren church. The Y. P. C. E. U. extend an invitation to all their friends to attend as this will be the last festival of the season.

Snow Shoe.

The Lock Haven photographer who has been here for the last four weeks has met with much success.

Some time ago about thirty-five of our young folks held a "gypsy picnic" at the top of the mountain, and in honor of the occasion so much enjoyed one of the members composed a few verses, as follows:

Say, Bill, do you remember a few years ago
When we started out, a gypsying to go,
The wagons we had fixed right up to snuff,
And sleighbells, gee, we'en't they the stuff.

We started out early one summer morn,
And didn't care how cold or how warm;
The ride over the mountain it was fine,
And the pretty girls made it simply divine

With our bugle we had the farmers all out to see
What a jolly bunch we were in our gypsy glee.
And, say, the park in which we pitched our tent;
For us alone it seemed that it was meant.

The lakes made the place look like a field of gold,
And some of the boys said the water was cold.
To my mind, Bill, the best thing of all that day
Was the EATS in the baker wagon, pulled by the old bay.

How swell that big table looked
When the girls brought out the good things they'd cooked.
Gee, how the bunch of hungry cusses did dig in
And soon made that table look thin.

The afternoon was spent in walks and talks and games,
And some of the girls rode horses, holding on by the manes.
How we all did whisper from one to 'tother,
Who stole the watermelon's twin brother?

And say, Bill, who put those bees in your sock,
That made you do the spring-house floor cake walk?
And last but not least came the geese—
We had them for supper also Joe. Reese

Then another walk we did take
Down the track to see the sun set, which was great.
And when at the park we arrived
We found it time for our homeward drive.

Now, Bill, that ride—there was class to it,
For coming down the mountain the seats we seldom hit;
And those pickles you handed around
Almost made big prices drop to the ground.

Happy days, were those, Bill—days of long ago,
And we will always have a warm spot in our hearts for those we learned to know.

Thinking that probably some of the many readers of "The Republican" would care to hear a few words more about the reunion of Co. E, Penna. To say that we all had a good time would be to put it too mildly. With Comrade Musser as quartermaster, we marched to the Brockerhoff House where a fine dinner was served. To my mortification I realize that I am almost forgetting to mention our invited guests, Mrs. W. H. Musser, Mrs. J. G. Heberling, Mrs. W. H. Sandy Ridge had quite a demonstration on Labor Day. The P. O. S. of A. took the lead and the citizens fell into line and an interesting and successful basket picnic was held. The grounds selected for the picnic were near the base ball park, not far from the Retort brick works. The Port Matilda band was there and rendered a number of pretty patriotic airs. There were addresses by Rev. Mr. Gilbert, of the M. E. Church, and Rev. Mr. Mills, of the United Brethren Church. Two base ball games were on the program, but owing to an error on the part of the managers the players did not show up. The Y. M. C. A. team, of Tyrone was expected. The people were not entirely disappointed, however, for there were good players among the Port Matilda band and a nine was selected which gave us a close and exciting game in the afternoon. There was a stand on the grounds, conducted by the P. O. S. of A.; which served all kinds of tasty refreshments.

The Sandy Ridge brick works closed down and all joined in having a good time. Quite a large number of families took their dinners to the grounds. Many persons from the other side of the mountain were present and helped make the occasion a great success.

Why do not the people of lower Penns Valley have an Old Home Week celebration? No other town in the county is more entitled to such a reunion than Aaronsburg, which is the oldest town in Centre County, being founded and laid out by Aaron Levy, October 4th, 1786. Then, too, the students of the old Academy could have a reunion during that week---Don't wait but begin at once for the "home coming" in 1910.

Scotia was almost deserted on Monday. Everybody attended the Odd Fellows' picnic at Hunters Park.

Girls Will be Girls.

The average musical comedy includes several acts of scenery, some more or less comely maidens, a number of abbreviated costumes and a trio or quartette of hired hands who occupy the centre of the stage killing time and the audience, while the chorus recuperate in the wings for its next vocal effort.

When "Girls will be Girls" was first produced at the Majestic Theatre in Boston, the usual blase first nighters came to be bored by the familiar inane musical piece, but the unexpected happened. The offering proved to be one of the brighest farces seen in the Hub since the palmy days of Hoyt. It has a clean, clear, consistent plot, and the whimsical characters might have been drawn by the pen of Dickens. Briefly, the action of the play revolves around Prof. Dodge, the proprietor of a young ladies' seminary in a small New England town. The Professor has a fondness for cock fights, and while enjoying his favorite pastime, the affair is raided by a posse headed by Deacon Sonkey, of the Watch and Ward society. The Professor escapes through the aid of an ex-convict, who proceeds to make the Academy his head-quarters, thereby arousing the suspicions of Sheriff Ketchem, the local sleuth. To further complicate matters, Dr. Sprout, a teacher of dead languages, is expected. His trunk arrives at the station, and Tom Sparrow, a tramp, breaks it open, dons the Doctor's attire and impersonates that savant. When the real Doctor appears he falls into the clutches of Sheriff Ketchem, who accuses him of being the ex-convict, but the Doctor establishes his innocence with the assistance of his daughters, the Sprout triplets. There are a dozen minor characters of various rural types, and a score of pretty girls represent the academy students. It can be readily seen that the foregoing plot gives an opportunity for numerous funny situations, and in addition there are a number of catchy songs, dainty dances and tinkling medleys. The production is handsomely costumed and the scenery is elaborate. "Girls will be Girls," has a record of one solid year in three cities; New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Exactly the same performance with all the careful detail of the original will be given at Garman's Opera House, tomorrow night, Sept. 10.

The Conferences are in response to the demand of President Roosevelt's "Country Life Mission" for a "Broad Campaign of Publicity" for rural institutions.

Dry Weather Hurts Crops.

Bradstreet's weekly report, discussing the crop situation, says: Past or present droughty conditions tend to modify earlier estimates of yields, particularly of corn and cotton. There is general agreement now that deterioration west of the Mississippi, due to dry weather, will prevent a bumper yield, though a crop equal to last year is easily probable. The western drought is partially broken, but, while helpful to pastures and allowing of fall plowing proceeding, the general conclusion is that corn will be little benefited. The early planted crop is best situated, while the later planted, especially on thin lands, lacks promise. Light frosts in Illinois, Michigan and New York are not thought to have done much damage. Corn will be a short crop in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri. Nebraska's yield will be smaller than expected. In Kansas the feeling is more optimistic than a while ago. In Ohio dry weather has affected quality. In the east the sweet-corn crop will be below the average owing to drought. Spring-wheat threshings are good, but there will not be a bumper crop. Winter-wheat movement is hardly up to expectations.

The government cotton report shows the lowest condition on record for this time of year, and reports to BRADSTREET'S point to a short crop in the southwest, especially Texas, a disappointing yield in the lower Mississippi and only fair yields in Alabama. Despite hot weather the Georgia crop promises to be a good one, and the southern part of that state may produce a record yield. In the Carolinas dry weather has hurt cotton, but yields equal to last year are possible. The eastern Washington fruit crop will be short, as will be the apple crop in New England. The rice crop is a large one, and Louisiana sugar and western beet-sugar yields promise largely.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room, which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk.

"Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day. You've been giving 'em catchup."—From "Random Recollections of a Commercial Traveler."

Salad Rolls.

Way of Preparing.—Open the rolls and scoop out a pocket in each. Brush with butter and run in the oven for a few minutes. Cool and fill with a mixture of the other ingredients. Place on a bread plate and garnish with fringed celery.—National Food Magazine.

Some Consolation.

A detective once said it was all wrong to suppose that the professional housebreaker works with coolness and calculation. On the contrary, he usually works in terror and haste, takes too much swag from one room and too little from another and sometimes overlooks the silver in carrying off the electro.—London Saturday Review.

A BURGLAR'S ADVICE.

Where to Keep a Revolver at Night and How to Use It.

I take my pen in hand to write you an answer to the mug that signs his name "Victim" what says that a bolt on your bedroom door nights will make you safe from burglars coming into the room and shooting your head off and to tell him the only way to be safe from harm by burglars is to lay still when they tells you to and after they has gone to collect from the burglary insurance company.

Your man "Victim" is a dull guy if he thinks a bolt will stop any one that knows his trade, because we always puts a gimlet hole through the panel right back of the bolt and slides it back quiet and easy just the same way as we puts holes through the panel back of dead latches on outside doors, because there ain't nothing will stop a man that knows the trade only a steel door with an iron crossbar back of it and electric contacts all round.

What's more is that any man that sleeps with a pistol under his pillow is a chump, because that's where we always feels for it the first thing and gets it before proceeding to the business of the evening, the right place to keep a pistol being in the front hall hanging on a nail where you ain't liable to do no damage to the bedroom walls and furniture with it, besides its being bad for nervous people to wake up in the night and feel for a pistol that ain't there no more.

If a guy wants to take a pistol to bed with him and thinks he's got nerve enough to use it the proper place for it is not under the pillow, because that's where we always look for it, but it's at the foot of the bed, about where you can stretch out with your toes so that when you wake up and feel the burglar's hand searching under your pillow you can lay still till he moves over to the bureau, when you will have plenty of time to get hold of your gun with your toes and pull it up gentle and slow like you was still fast asleep till you get your grip on it and then if you are quick enough to make the burglar shoot in the smoke all right, but if you ain't got the nerve for the job you'd better not have no guns around, because he will shoot next.

Having been in the bolt slipping and pistol collecting business for nine years, I guess I know the game, and if I knowed where your mug "Victim" lives I would just come up some evening and pinch his gun for him to show him his bolt is no good.—Sloppy Mike in New York Sun.

NO IMPEDIMENT.

An Objection to a Wedding Ceremony That Was Overruled.

A popular politician tells a story about one of his electioneering campaigns. He had arrived about noon at a certain small station. He started out after dinner for a walk about the village, on the outskirts of which he came upon a building thronged with people.

The building was a church, and a wedding was about to take place. He edged his way through the crowd until he reached a spot where he had a good view of the bride and bridegroom and the clergyman who was about to perform the ceremony.

The church was packed, with the exception of a low, dark gallery near the roof. This was apparently deserted.

The minister proceeded with the ceremony until he came to the point where custom required him to pause and inquire if there was any one present who knew any reason why the couple should not be made husband and wife. A hush fell upon the assemblage, and every one waited in breathless suspense. Something of a sensation was caused when a voice came from the upper gallery, saying:

"Yes, I do."

All eyes were turned to the gallery, where, seated all alone in the gloom, barely discernible, was a meek looking little man, with a haggard face and disheveled hair. After the clergyman had recovered from his surprise he said sternly, "State your reason, sir!"

The suspense was turned to merriment by the little man's reply:

"I want the girl myself," he said.—London Tit-Bits.

Rest Your Eyes.

The moment you are instinctively inclined to rub the eyes that moment cease to use them. Also it is time to give your eyes a rest when you become sensible of an effort to distinguish. Cold water is about the safest application for inflamed eyes. Never sleep so that on awakening the eyes shall open on the light of a window. Never read or sew directly in front of the light of a window, the better light being that that comes from above or obliquely or over the left shoulder. Too much light is an evil, just as is scant light. It creates a glare that pains and confuses the sight.

The Old Style.

No, this is not Esperanto:

Koom oontaw thez yelauoo sands
And then taak handz;
Koortaid hwen eeoo haav and kist
The wayld waavz hwist.

Nor is it the song of a boy scout who is imitating the bellow of the hedgehog and at the same time whistling between his teeth. No; it is Shakespeare's lyric, "Come unto these yellow sands," etc., as rewritten after the Elizabethan style.—London Globe.

Reproved.

The Young Doctor—Just think; six of my patients recovered this week. The Old Doctor—It's your own fault, my boy. You spend too much time at the club.—New York Life.

Enjoyment stops where indolence begins.—Pollock.

An Ancient Sky Pilot.

From Garnett's "Anthology," volume 7, page 48, I copy the following, taken from the "Writings of Lucian," a Greek born about 100 A. D.:

"We were suddenly caught by a whirlwind, which turned our vessel several times around in a circle with tremendous velocity and lifted it above 3,000 stadia in the air, not settling it down again on the sea, but kept it suspended above the water at that height and carried us on, with swelled sails, above the clouds."

In these days of air conquest this quotation might be of utmost interest to aeronauts and also literary men. This ancient Gulliver long preceded Swift, and as for outdistancing Jules Verne another quotation is added:

"Having thus continued our course through the sky for a space of seven days and as many nights, on the eighth day we described a sort of earth in the air," etc. (which proved to be the moon).

The thoroughly familiar vernacular expression "going some" applies with original vigor to this early and perhaps first sky pilot.—New York Times.

The Usual Thing.

"What's the proper thing at a wedding?"

"Wish the pair happiness and tell everybody else there's no earthly chance for it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

How Railroad Service Improves.

Those who are so ready at all times to find fault with the service of the railroads will be interested in the report of the Public Service Commission of New York, that of steam railroad passenger service during the month of June, ninety-two per cent. of the fifty-five thousand trains were run on time. The principal causes of delay were waiting for train connections. A very small percentage of the delays was chargeable to wrecks or engine failures. This record of New York State, wonderful as it is, does not stand alone. It is the record made by the railroads in nearly every State. We doubt if ever before in their history have our railroads been run with greater care and skill, or with more consideration for the comfort and convenience of their passengers than now. Yet, the disposition to grumble at the railroads continues in some parts of the country and the muckrakers and the yellow press are still sharpening their hatchets and persisting in their senseless work.—From Leslie's Weekly.

Hudson-Fulton Celebration New York City.

Three hundred years ago, Henry Hudson, an Englishman in command of a Dutch expedition, with eighteen men, explored the Hudson River from Sandy Hook to Troy in his small craft, the "Half Moon."

One hundred and ninety eight years later, Robert Fulton established, with his steamboat, the "Clermont," a regular water service between New York and the towns along the Hudson river to the North.

This year, New York City, with sister cities and towns along the Hudson, will celebrate these two achievements by a series of imposing observances, religious, historical, military, naval, musical and literary, extending from September 25 to October 9.

Replicas of the 'Half Moon" and the "Clermont" have been built and will play a large part in the celebration. They will be the centre of attraction in the great naval pageant on Saturday, September 25. The United States Government will have fifty-two war ships anchored in the Hudson, and Great Birtain, France, the Netherlands, Italy, Germany, Argentine, Guatemala, Mexico, and Cuba will be represented by war vessels.

Two great parades of water craft will escort the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" in triumphal procession past the war leviathans, first in the morning and again in the evening, when all the vessels will be illuminated.

On September 28 there will be a grand historical pageant and on September 30 a big military parade in New York City.

On October 1, the "Half Moon" and "Clermont" will proceed up the Hudson to Troy escorted by hundreds of river craft, including torpedo boats.

A magnificent carnival parade will be held in New York on Saturaday evening, October 2, which promises to eclipse all previous attempts.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, the direct line to New York, with its unsurpassed service of fast express trains, will sell excursion tickets to New York for this poriod at reduced rates of fare.

Full details concerning specific fares, dates of sale, return limits, and train service may be obtained of Ticket Agents.

PENROSE TO LEAD THE BUTTER FIGHT

Pennsylvania Senator Champion of Dairy Interests.

TO FOLLOW TARIFF VICTORY

Republican Leader of the Keystone State to Lead the Forces of the Agricultural Interests at the Next Session of the National Congress.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 7.

Reports from every section of the state confirm the predictions that the farmers of Pennsylvania would be found standing loyally by the Republican party in the present state campaign.

In the framing of the tariff bill, which was recently passed at Washington, the interests of the farmers and dairymen of the Keystone State were carefully looked after by the Republican representatives in congress, and by also conserving the welfare of the wage earners and capitalists identified with great industrial concerns, the same Republican representatives promoted the general good.

The farmers thrive when their fellow countrymen are employed at remunerative wages, for the great army of workers in the factories and mines and in commercial life are the purchasers of the products of the farms.

From every quarter comes the news of revival of business and the relighting of the fires of the coke ovens and the furnaces of great manufacturing plants as the direct result of the passage of a Republican tariff bill.

To Lead Fight For Farmers.

Senator Penrose, who filled a most important role as a leading member of the United States senate's finance committee in drafting the tariff act, had the hearty co-operation of his colleague, the junior United States Senator George T. Oliver, and every one of the Republican members of the house from Pennsylvania.

Now that the tariff issue has been settled prominent factors among the grangers and the dairymen of this state have inaugurated a movement for national protection for the butter makers against the sale of oleomargarine and other similar products in imitation of butter.

As he did in the tariff agitation, Senator Penrose has come to the front as the champion of the dairy interests of his native state and the country at large as well.

He has recognized the numerous defects in federal statutes which govern the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine, butterine, renovated or process butter and adulterated butter and he has agreed to co-operate with the prominent leaders of the Grange, Pure Butter Protective Association, the National Dairy Union and kindred agricultural organizations that wish to see these evils corrected at the session of the Sixty-first congress, which convenes in December next.

To Draft a New Bill.

Senator Penrose has requested a committee of the State Grange of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania state department of agriculture and the Pure Butter Protective association of Pennsylvania, with A. H. Woodward, of Clearfield, and Assistant United States Attorney Walter C. Douglas, Jr., as attorneys, to prepare a bill which Senator Penrose will introduce as soon as congress shall reconvene. Senator Penrose says the defective character of the national laws works great injury to dairymen, farmers, merchants and consumers. The proposed measure is to be drafted with the greatest care, and while it will not prevent the legal manufacture and sale of oleomargarine and other butter substitutes, it will certainly prevent the sale of these products for butter.

Farmers, dairymen and all fair-minded people do not object to the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine for what it is, but they do very properly oppose the marketing of this commodity as the genuine product of the cow.

Statistics from the Pennsylvania department of agriculture show that about 90 per cent of oleomargarine sold at retail is represented by the venders to be pure butter.

Deception of this kind is a great detriment to the dairyman, and it also enables unscrupulous dealers to defraud consumers who are induced to pay a price for oleomargarine considerably in excess of its real market value.

It is held that the word "knowingly" should be omitted from the oleomargarine laws because in many cases it has been found impossible to secure convictions on account of inability to prove that the offender knowingly violated the law. It is also held that the definition of oleomargarine should be so changed that butter, with or without coloring matter, could not be used in its manufacture, and that stamps should be visible and a record kept of the serial numbers so that every package may be traced to the dealer or manufacturer.

Bubbling Islands.

More than a century ago a mountain rose out of the waters on the southern edge of Bering sea, at the extremity of the Aleutian Islands, which mark the outpost of the Alaska Peninsula. The Russians named it Bogoslof. Since the whole property came into the possession of the United States it has become known as the Castle Rock. Forty Miles distant, nearly southeast, lies the Island of Unalaska. It is said that the inhabitants of Unlaska had a bad fright when Castle Rock reared out of the sea, smoking and steaming, and no wonder. In 1883 another submarine convulsion boosted a second pile of rock above the surface, a mile and a half distant from Bogoslof, which by that time had become a common item of geography. This islet was named Grewingk, after a famous Russian scientist, but the two are known to mariners as the Bogoslof Islands. Ships were able to make their way into and out of Bering Sea between them without hazard in good weather. A report is now brought by a steamer from the seal rookeries that Bogoslof has disappeared completely. The foundering of the island was discovered by the revenue cutter Perry of the patrol fleet. It is attributed to seismological disturbance which shook Unalaska on June 21. It is said that the Perry's company actually witnessed the sinking of the mountain as it settled close to the surface, where a steaming lake was formed which recorded a temperature of 240 degrees.

A third island, Metcalf Cone—named after the then Secretary of the Navy—is said to have risen between the two as recently as 1906, exciting widespread speculation as to the prospect of a considerable extension of the non-contiguous territory of the United States. For a short period there was a fourth member of the spectacular group, McCulloch Peak. When a scientific party from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology visited the scene of these wonderful happenings in the summer of 1907 the two new cones, rising 500 feet above the surface, were steaming like puddings. It was estimated that the extinct volcano, Castle Rock, had a height of 6,000 feet loftier than Vesuvius. The outpourings of lava had made land all around the four cones.

The explorers found that the sea lions were luxuriating along the hot shores and in the fuming waters, while sea birds were making their homes and laying their eggs among the jagged rocks and grass was beginning to grow. There was another convulsion in the fall of that year, but this time no new volcano pinnacle rose to startle the inhabitants of Unalaska.—From an article in the Providence Journal.

Philadelphia, Sept. 7.

With the opening of the state committee headquarters today the Republican compaign in Pennsylvania was formally inaugurated.

Although it is a fact that Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the state committee, has been at work for weeks corresponding with county chairmen and other influential Republicans and has had the party machinery in active operation ever since he quit his activities in promoting the passage of the tariff bill at Washington, the general canvass for the election of the nominees of the Republican state convention may be fairly said to have been started this morning.

Republicans from interior counties who come here will be delighted with the new headquarters of the state committee.

The old establishment on Locust street below Fifteenth has been abandoned and thoroughly up to date committee rooms have been secured in the dwelling formerly occupied by former Congressman Morrell on Broad street below Spruce. It is a four-story structure with all modern equipment. It is admirably adapted for campaign work.

Chairman Andrews, Secretary W. Harry Baker, of Dauphin, and Treasurer Charles Johnson, of Montgomery, have all been located in desirable offices, and Sergeant-at-Arms Cassell has assigned the corps of clerks and typewriters to suitable quarters throughout the building. Long distance telephones keep the chairman in touch with the county committeemen in all parts of the state, and commodious rooms are available for meetings of the general committee or of sub-committees as they shall be called together from time to time.

An Important Campaign.

While this to many is what is termed an "off year," Colonel Andrews does not intend that it shall be an "off year" as far as the work at state committee headquarters are concerned.

He is proceeding upon the line that this is but a preliminary campaign for the election of a Republican governor and the election of a solid Republican delegation to congress next year. He has reminded all of his lieutenants that in June next the nominations will be made for governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs, for congressman in each of the thirty-two districts in the state, for state senator in all of the even numbered districts and for representatives in all of the state assembly districts, and that the legislature which will convene on the first Monday of January, 1911, will elect a successor to George T. Oliver, the junior United States senator from Pennsylvania.

With the important issues that will confront the voters next year Colonel Andrews in all of his appeals for support for the party nominees this fall dwells upon the necessity of strengthening the Republican lines in every direction and of indorsing the work of the Republican congress at Washington, which has protected Pennsylvania's interests.

The Lost Donkey.

In Turkey they tell stories about Nasr-ed-Din and his donkey. Once upon a time when the donkey was lost Nasr-ed-Din went about seeking it, at the same time giving thanks as he went.

"Why do you give thanks?" asked his friend. "I see no cause for thankfulness."

"Cause enough!" was the prompt reply. "Why, man alive, if I had been along with that donkey I'd have been lost too!"—New York Tribune.

Use For the Anchor.

"Captain," remarked the nuisance on shipboard who always asks foolish questions, "what is the object in throwing the anchor overboard?"

"Young man," replied the old salt, "do you understand the theory of seismic disturbances? Well, we throw the anchor overboard to keep the ocean from slipping away in the fog."

Oh!

"How did you act when he proposed?"

"I sank gracefully on one knee."

"How ridiculous! What in the world did you sink on your knee for?"

"On his knee, not mine."—Houston Post.

Quite a Difference.

Customer—Can't you give anything off to a clergyman? Tradesman—Not in this instance, sir. You see, these goods is different from yours. These is guaranteed goods.—Life.

Love, like fortune, turns upon a wheel and is very much given to rising and falling.—Vanbrugh.

The Modern Way.

One friend who has spent a long and useful life and looks good for another half century expects his reward in heaven and meantime is a philosopher. He can talk on any subject under the sun, from "the flower of poesy" to "the precession of the equinoxes." He apparently knows the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" by heart, so I knew that when he handed me a bit of verse it must be good.

"Here is a hymn on the solar system or some other lofty theme," thought I, placing the sheet in my letter case. When I arrived home I read:

The lizard climbed a wall. He climbed it once.
He climbed it twice—then crawled away.

The bee sipped a flower. He sipped it once.
He sipped it twice—then flew away.

The man kissed a maid. He kissed her once.
He kissed her twice—then walked away.

The wall wasn't sunny; the flower had no honey;
The maid had no money. Funny!

The problem now is whether the contribution is a joke or a gem.—National Magazine.

Pilkerton Won the Race.

At one of the regattas of the National Association of American Oarsmen during the early nineties James Pilkerton, for many years the champion sculler of America, was matched to row double against another team. He and his mate were the champions, and the general belief was that they would win without effort. But the night before the regatta public opinion suddenly and mysteriously changed. Mr. Pilkerton knew that this was not caused by any new development of strength in his opponent or any loss of skill on his own part. After making some quiet inquiries he discovered that there was talk of his rowing mate having been bought up by the other side and of an arrangement to throw the race.

He didn't say anything about his suspicions, but when the two men were seated in the shell and were well out into the deep water he leaned over to his mate and said:

"Look here, you blooming cutthroat! You've got to swim, drown or win this race! You know me!" He won.

Would Bequeath Her Ears.

Harriet Martineau displayed originality in the provisions she made at one time for the disposal of her remains. James Payn relates that, having consulted Toynbee, the distinguished aurist, with regard to her deafness, "she was so pleased with the interest he took in her case that she resolved to leave him by testamentary bequest her ears. She announced this intention in the presence of her medical man, Mr. Shepherd, who to my infinite amazement observed: 'But, my dear madam, you can't do that. It will make your other legacy worthless.' The fact was, in the interest of science, Miss Martineau had already left her head to the Phrenological society. I asked the doctor how he came to know that. 'Oh,' he said, 'she told me so herself. She has left £10 in her codicil to me for cutting it off.'" The doctor, however, died before his patient, and the Phrenological society never received the legacy of her head.—London Chronicle.

A Cheerful Letter.

The following was sent by a countryman to his son in college not many years ago:

My Dear Son—I write to send you two pair of old breeches, that you may have a new coat made of them; also some new socks, which your mother knit by cutting down some of mine. Your mother sends you $10 without my knowledge, and for fear you will not spend it wisely I have kept back half and only send five. Your mother and I are well, except your sister Annie has got the measles, which we think would spread among other girls if Tom had not had them before, and he is the only one left. I hope you are well and will do honor to my teachings. If you do not you are an ass, and your mother and myself are your affectionate parents.

A Nice Bird.

"Do you like a nice bird?" asked the host as they sat down to the table.

"Oh, yes!" responded the guest immediately and enthusiastically.

"You ought to call on my sister," explained the other. "She's got one of the finest canaries you ever saw. Well, what kind of a sandwich do you think you can eat?"—London Telegraph.

An Arbitrary Classification.

"So you think every patriot has a more or less clearly defined ambition to hold public office?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "As a rule, patriots may be divided into two classes—the appointed and the disappointed."—Washington Star.

Badly Expressed.

"For heaven's sake, be careful with that rifle, man!" exclaimed a musketry instructor. "You just missed me that time."

"Did I, sergeant? I'm awfully sorry!" responded the indifferent marksman.—London Fun.

It Quieted Mother.

The house was all paid for. Mother was exultant, jubilant, reiterative. "Say, mother," burst out six-year-old Paul eagerly, "print it on your cards, mother, print it on your cards!"—Delineator.

On Thursdey of last week about ninety of the Harpster, Woodring, Williams and Hoover families made a surprise party visit to the home of Mrs. Joseph Harpster, at the foot of the mountain back of Martha. It was her sixty-sixth birthday anniversary and her friends gathered from all directions in honor of the occasion. The day was delightfully spent, there was a good, old fashioned dinner, such as one would be sure to find at the Harpster home, and during the afternoon there were brief and happy addresses by four ministers present Rev. Ake, Rev. William Beach, Rev. Gordon Williams and Rev. J. P. Hughes, Mrs. Harpster was made the recipient of a number of very handsome presents.

Former State Senator Cyrus E. Woods, of Greensburg, general counsel for the Pittsburg Coal Co., was in Bellefonte for a few hours on Sunday and called on the editor of "The Republican" We had a delightful chat about old times at Harrisburg when Cyrus was president pro tem of the Senate and an active figure in Republican circles. Some time ago Senator McNichol, the Philadelphia political leader, presented Cyrus with a fine bull dog. Early in the Summer Mr. and Mrs. Woods went abroad for a three months' trip and they entrusted the bull dog to the care of Mr, Woods' sister, Mrs. Goheen, of Boalsburg. Returning from Europe last week Cyrus visited the old Woods homestead at Boalsburg, on Sunday, and took the bull dog back to Greensburg. Judging by the way the dog tugged at the chain he preferred Boalsburg to Greensburg, for which he is to be commended. Few young men in Pennsylvania have made the rapid progress as has marked the career of Cyrus Woods. He retired from the general practice of law two years ago to become general counsel for the Pittsburg Coal Company, one of the largest corporations in the United States. Although but 48 years of age he is in charge of all the legal work of the company and is the youngest man who has ever held that responsible position. A prince among good fellows he has a wide circle of friends in all parties who rejoice in his remarkable success in life. That the next few years will see Cyrus Woods chosen as the Republican nominee for Governor is believed by many persons to be entirely probable. No better or more popular selection for that high office could be made. To a friend of more than ten years and one whose friendship is well worth having, here's hoping things continue to come his way.

EYESIGHT SPECIALIST.

at the Brockerhoff House.

Wednesday Morning until Thursday Evening, Sept. 22-23.

TO MY PATRONS: Having become established in Centre and adjoining counties as a successful eye specialist I have concluded that it will be to the best interest of myself and the public to make a reduction of 25 per cent in all my charges. This will enable those who have felt they could not afford to pay former prices to secure proper treatment of their eyes at the lowest possible expense.

If you wish to save your eyesight and money, too, don't fail to call on Prof. Angel. All parents are advised to have their children's eyes examined, especially those that go to school. You will thereby make a good scholar and avoid suffering. At the Brockerhoff House, Wednesday morning until Thursday evening, Sept. 22nd and 23rd.
